Prevent Duty & British Values

Introduction

The statutory Prevent Duty evolved out of the recommendations from the Counter-Terrorism Act 2015. This is a duty to look at what more can be done to tackle extremist activity that “creates an environment for radicalising individuals and could lead them on a pathway towards terrorism”.

Policy

At the Odell Trust we promote and reinforce the British values that are important to us. We see British values as underpinning what it is to be a citizen in a modern and diverse United Kingdom. British values include:-

- democracy
- the rule of law
- individual liberty
- mutual respect
- tolerance for those with different faiths and beliefs

As well as striving to actively promote these values to our members, we are also embedding these into the activities that we deliver.

With these values in mind, at the Odell Trust we aim to:

- Help members to become valuable and rounded members of society who treat others with respect and tolerance, regardless of background
- Embed different materials about democracy and the rule of law into activities that we deliver to our members
- Ensure that all our members have a voice that is listened to and valued
- Use opportunities such as general elections and debates to help members to understand different points of view
- Actively consult with our members to gather their views and opinions
- Encourage members to become responsible individuals and to actively participate in their own learning and development

What to do if you have a concern

If a member of staff at the Odell Centre has a concern about an individual they should follow the Odell Centre’s normal safeguarding procedures as set out in the trust’s Safeguarding Adults Policy (P034)
